INCOME TAX NIGHT INTERESTS REALTOR GROUP AND GUESTS

Joseph A. Wilson, Chief of Income Tax Division, 1st District, is Speaker

HELPFUL ANSWERS

Members of Bucks County Bankers' Ass'n Also Attend; Guests of Honor Introduced DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 15.—Designated as "Income Tax Night," a joint meeting of the Bucks County Real Estate Board and the Bucks County Bankers Association was conducted in the Fountain House, last evening, with the realtors group as the sponsoring unit.

Over 80 were present for the dinner, and sat most attentively for the two-hour address which followed, with Joseph A. Wilson, chief of the Income Tax Division of the First District, Philadelphia, giving most helpful information. Later opportunity was afforded for the asking and answering of questions pertaining to income tax provisions.

Charles H. Heyer opened the meeting, he introducing to the assemblage President Judge of Bucks County Courts Hiram H. Keller; Senator Farrell, of the Eighth District; and Samuel Cressman, vice-president of the Bucks County Bankers Association. Mr. Cressman spoke briefly. Other guests of honor present were: District Attorney Edward Biester, and former District Attorney Arthur M. Eastburn.

Mr. Heyer then turned the meeting over to J. Carroll Malloy, who in turn introduced Mr. Wilson, and the following who also represent the Income Tax Division of the District: Frank Baldwin, Harry Unger, Edward Dooley, William Gillespie, and William Kane. The latter is the Doylestown representative; and the entire group was available for questioning later.

Mr. Wilson, who has during the past 15 years made 500 such addresses, congratulated the gathering on being so interested and keenly attentive to the information presented. He outlined the requirements for filing of income tax returns, and in addition to the direct taxes spoke of many indirect taxes. Among the latter he mentioned that a person smoking a pack of cigarettes a day pays an annual tax on the same of $31.03; while a car owner pays approximately $27.50 in taxes annually. He also listed the 10 per cent tax now levied on liquor, jewelry, furs, etc.

The speaker reminded that income tax history goes back as far as the 17th century, but it was in March of 1913 that people of the United States commenced paying according to a graduated scale. Returns at present must be made by married persons with gross income of $1500, and by a single person with $750 income or more. He told of the surtax increase.

Auto-Use Tax Stickers Are Expected Here Monday

The Bristol post office has not as yet received a supply of the new Federal auto-use tax stickers, but according to announcement made today they are expected to be received for sale at the local post office on Monday next.

The cost of such for the period ending June 30, 1942, will be $2.09, and after that the annual fee for such stamp will be $5. It is stated that fee for portion of a year, in cases where cars are purchased, will be according to the number of months it is to cover. The fiscal year will commence July 1st. All that is necessary is for the car owner to present the required amount at the nearest post office, and stamp and card will be issued.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—(INS)—Lack of glue on the right side of the Government's auto-use tax stamps temporarily gummed up their sale, it was explained by post office officials in Philadelphia today.

The glue on the stamps had incorrectly been placed on the back of the stamps. Since the stamps must be fixed to the windshield, the glue should have been put on the face of the stamps, it was explained.

Sales, however, will continue today and Uncle Sam's nephews will pay $2.09 for the stamp and supply the glue himself. It has not definitely been decided whether it's the Government or the motorist who gets stuck.

The car was operated by Donald R. Watson, of Laings Gardens. According to the report, Fitzgerald and Winfrey were crossing Pond street, near the intersection of Mulberry street, when hit by the machine being operated by Watson west on Pond street. Watson stated that lights from an approaching car "blinded" him. He took the two young men to the hospital. After treatment they were discharged.

JURY GIVES VERDICT IN SHOOTING GALLERY CASE

Award $1,625 to Joseph Howe Against Two Defendants

NO APPEAL YET FILED

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 15.—A verdict for $1,625 was handed down in Court here yesterday afternoon in favor of Joseph Howe, of Philadelphia, formerly of this borough, against the Bucks County Fish, Game and Forestry Association and the Doylestown Fair Association, jointly.

The jury took the case at 2:30 yesterday afternoon and returned the verdict at 4:40 o'clock. No motion has as yet been filed for a new trial.

Completion of the civil court trial in which the Doylestown Fair Association, the fair's "holding company" and the Bucks County Fish, Game and Forestry Association, were sued for $25,000, by Joseph Howe, 46-year-old Philadelphia millwright, ended yesterday.

The case started Tuesday morning before a jury of six women and six men, before Judge Harold Knight, of the Montgomery county court, specially presiding in this trial.

The defendant brought suit after he had been shot in the abdomen by a bullet fired from a rifle that was used in a shooting gallery operated by the Bucks County Fish, Game and Forestry Association, on the Doylestown Fair grounds on September 14, 1940. Howe was walking along the side of the Farm Products building between the building and the Doylestown Fair race track, with his 5-year-old son, when the elder Howe was accidentally shot.

After completion of the plaintiff's case attorneys for the defense presented motions for a non-suit on various

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan
(I. N. S. Staff Writer)
President Roosevelt got his War Production Chief from Sears, Roebuck & Company in 1940 with a money-back guarantee.

Donald Nelson came out of the spring-summer catalogue with a 90-day warranty and proved to be more durable.

He is one of the three most noted Nelsons in history, the other two being Lord Nelson and half-nelson.

Barney Baruch trained for war production in the first war with a career in financing. His successor has counted pins, wrapped tombstones and delivered violins complete with instruction book.

He is one of the few men in America who could mail a tractor or a tea-kettle out of stock on one requisition.

Mr. Nelson worked under the Blue Eagle before it laid an egg and he was fled away with a note reading "Bring out this man again when we get through talking and start working."

If he can't deliver what we want he'll deliver something better for the same price.

Thought for the day: It's never too late to hit the jack-pot.

BUCKS CO. MOTOR FATALITIES SHOW INCREASE IN 1941

Advance of 12 For First 11 Months of 1941 Over Same Period In '40

3 ARE PEDESTRIANS

In Entire State of Penna. There Was An Increase of Only 3 Fatalities

The number of deaths due to motor vehicle accidents in Bucks County for the first 11 months of 1941 increased by 12 over the number for the same period in 1940. The total casualties from that cause in the months of January to November, inclusive, in 1941, was 46, as compared to 34 for the same period in 1940.

The state's total of motor vehicle deaths for the first 11 months in 1941 was 2022, a large increase from the 1862 for the first 11 months of 1940. The percentage of increase for the state was 8.6.

The largest increase for Bucks County was in the rural areas, there being an increase of 11 there; with only one additional in boroughs of the county.

The number of pedestrians killed in Bucks, however, in that period decreased by four from the total in the January-November period of 1940. There were 17 pedestrians killed in that length of time in 1940, and 13 in the same period last year in this county.

BUCKS PUPILS CAN BE 'PATRIOTIC POLICEMEN'

May Enroute To and From School Note Sabotage Or '5th Column' Tactics

16,000 CAN BE OF AID

School children of Bucks County as well as in other parts of the country can serve as "patriotic policemen," reporting any sabotage or "fifth column" tactics or conduct which they observe, states superintendent of Bucks County schools Charles H. Boehm.

The 16,000 pupils in the county can be of great aid, it is said, Mr. Boehm pointing out that there isn't a mile in Bucks county that can't be covered every day because of the wide area which lies between their homes and schools.

On Monday, any school teacher in the county not serving under a supervising principal, was asked to report at the Administration Building Annex in Doylestown, as part of the schools' and teachers' part in the National Defense program. Two-thirds of the teachers will assemble from week to week.

The teachers will report in groups and County Superintendent Boehm will impress on them the need of all-out vigilance as part of the National Defense measures.

HAWAII PLANS TO EVACUATE FAMILIES FROM DANGER ZONES

Program Has Already Been Drawn To Remove Civilians To Places of Safety Should Japs Return

(Note: This is the fourth of a series of six articles on civilian preparedness in Honolulu.—INS)

By RICHARD HALLER
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 13.—(INS)—There will never be scenes of refugees trudging along the roads and highways of the Hawaiian Islands. If there are more attacks by Japanese airplanes the plans for evacuating people from the danger areas to places of safety, and for their care, should such drastic action become necessary, have been carefully worked out and ready for execution by a competent corps of civilian volunteers.

How well these plans will work was demonstrated by the small amount of evacuation that was advisable after Japan's treacherous attack on December 7th. People did not have to move from any residential area, but some of the army families were removed and this was accomplished swiftly and with a minimum of confusion. Certainly no hardship was entailed, and but little inconvenience. Willing citizens took families into their homes, and some groups were simply taken to plantation recreation halls or to other army posts.

But should it ever become necessary to order mass evacuation, every detail has been worked out. Hundreds of families with homes in what is considered the danger zone have made arrangements to double up with friends in safer districts, but the great majority of residents who might have to move will go to camps and centers where facilities for their care have been arranged.

The city of Honolulu which is the

Teachers Are Following A Course in First-Aid

A class in Red Cross first-aid was taught by Mrs. Julius Sobel to a large class of teachers of Bristol public schools, in the high school yesterday. Prior to the instruction, Mrs. William Duhamel and Mrs. Marie Holland welcomed the members and introduced the teacher.

In 1917 there were 67,000 certificates issued for the accomplishment of the course; in 1940 there were 577,269 issued, which shows the great interest in this very necessary knowledge."

The next meeting at the high school will be on Monday at 3:45 p. m.

Late Doylestown Woman Names Church and Relatives As Beneficiaries

THE SOELLE ESTATE

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 15.—St. Paul's Episcopal Church and relatives are to receive money from the estate of the late Miss Glendora Garrison, who stipulated in her will that her clothing be given to the poor of the parish.

Miss Garrison, one of the best known women of the county seat where for over 50 years she conducted a candy business, and later served at a news stand, left a personal estate of $400.

Stimson Says Army Will Expand

Washington, Jan. 15.—Secretary of War Stimson today announced that the United States Army would be expanded three million, six hundred thousand men before the end of 1942. Stimson revealed at a press conference that in this program, the air combat unit would be more than doubled; that 32 new divisions would be added, a large proportion would be fully motorized, and that armored units would be increased.

The Secretary said further that expansion of the Army is ahead of schedule, "and so we are making good progress."

In line with formation of new units of men, the War Department has moved to speed up construction in camps and training centers.

While the exact strength of the Army now is regarded as restricted military information, the latest available figures before war broke out on December 7th, last year, placed the strength of the Army at one million, six hundred thousand men. The Secretary said: "We are building nine camps for 3,000 men each, expanding all training centers so that capacities will be increased for some 200,000, and setting up temporary tent camps."

The Secretary explained that through this building program, the War Department hoped to accommodate all recruits as fast as they are inducted. He emphasized that "Some soldiers may be sent outside the continental United States and their quarters left for new men."

The amount donated by 325 contributors to date is $282.85, with the solicitation not being quite completed. The cost of the large siren, with 7 to 7½ horse-power motor, which will be ordered, is given as $175 or $180.

A committee named to purchase the siren is made up of Lewis Hartman, Dey Chapman, Mr. Ruth and Harry Johnson. This committee will also decide where the warning siren should be placed, it being the desire to select the highest point in the community.

House-to-house canvassing for the needed funds started several days ago, with a number of solicitors participating. Each family was asked to contribute at least 50 cents. Co-operation has been excellent it is said.

The standard signal for air raid warnings will be used, it is announced. Just when the siren can be delivered is not known as yet.

RED CROSS WORKERS MEET HERE TO HEAR OF RED CROSS NEEDS

Representative Group From Morrisville, Langhorne and Bristol Present

HARRY LAUER SPEAKER

Bristol's Quota is Set at $12,500 in Drive to Start February 15th

At Red Cross headquarters last evening a representative group from Morrisville, Langhorne, and Bristol were present to hear Harry Lauer, of the Southeastern Chapter of the American Red Cross, discuss the 1942 War Relief Fund. Mr. Lauer is a well informed speaker who has volunteered for years his services to Red Cross. Mr. Lauer mentioned many interesting facts concerning finances. At the last roll call, $525,000 was raised; during the last war, $750,000 was raised.

"This War Relief Drive will necessitate much more money than we have ever raised when we consider that $12,000,000 is required a year for the armed forces alone," he said.

"The quota we are asked as a chapter to raise is $2,500,000. Bristol's part is $12,500," said Mr. Lauer.

"In Philadelphia at Red Cross headquarters are men highly qualified to cope with the situation and who welcome helping those engaged in this special work. There will be a Branch Special Gifts Committee; and a committee for the employee solicitation of larger industries. On Friday, February 13th, a special luncheon will be held at the Bellevue-Stratford at which time there will be special speakers."

Edward Shields, assistant manager of S. E. chapter presented the quota.

Mrs. Frank Lehman and Miss Marian Smith will be in charge of the drive in this area with the co-operation of a group of competent workers.

Funds for purchase of wool are to be raised through card parties and covered dish luncheons. The first luncheon is arranged for January 22nd at the home of Mrs. Morris Ingram, Andalusia, there being accommodations for 35.

Mrs. Leo Lynn was the presiding officer of the evening, and a large number of members were in attendance.

Mrs. Lynn introduced as the speaker of the evening, Anthony Russo, Chief of Emergency Police, Bucks County Lower Area, who gave an instructive talk on need for black-outs locally, how the public can and should co-operate in the same; and also gave excellent information on various types of bombs, and how individuals can aid in combating such. The need for placing of sand and for having equipment such as shovels, water, etc., in readiness for any emergency was stressed by the speaker.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 15, 1942

ONLY ONE YARDSTICK

The American people will soon realize, if they do not already, that an all-out national war effort, 1942 style, is considerably more than just a phrase.

The key to the situation is supplied in the words of Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director. General Hershey says that the size of the United States Army can be measured by only one yardstick—it must be big enough to win the war.

No one knows at the moment just how big the Army—and, of course, the Navy and Marine Corps—will have to be to accomplish that purpose, but there is little doubt that to assure victory over experienced and determined foes the armed forces of the United States will have to grow to a point heretofore regarded as imaginary.

Millions of men will be in uniform before the war is won. Millions are already available through selective service and millions more will be on call after all men 20 through 44 register on February 16. Not all these men will be fit for combat duty, but it is reasonable to expect that many of them will be used for duties behind the lines to free other men who are qualified to fight.

And the industrial army must grow, too. 'Staggering amounts' of munitions must be produced for the use of the increased armed forces. For the time being, students, men with families and men needed in the production of food and weapons will be deferred from military service. But General Hershey makes it clear that as apprentices become skilled workers and as women can be substituted in industry and agriculture, more men will be called to the colors.

This is a national fight. It can be won only by a national effort greater than anything the world has yet seen.

DRAFT REGISTRATION

Acting under authority of the recently revised Selective Service Act, the President has set February 16 for the registration of all men born on or after February 17, 1897, and on or before December 31, 1921. This comprises the 20-44 age group of approximately 9,000,000 men. It leaves the remainder of the 18-64 group for later registration. Those who registered in 1940 and 1941 are not required to register again.

The registration is represented as preliminary to further drafts of men for the armed services. Whether it means that volunteer enlistments will soon be stopped has not been disclosed.

The new draft forms will call for much information about the training and experience of registrants. This is the first step in what may become a draft of defense labor. When the draft extension act was passed, much was said about conscription of the country's man power. Many members of Congress declared that the country must prepare itself to correct the injustice involved in requiring some men to join the armed forces and allowing others whose ability is useful in defense industries to work or loaf, as the mood dictates.

Judging by the program laid out by the President, this authority may be invoked before long. Individual liberty will disappear more and more as the war progresses. Only if victory can be won speedily can restoration of the people's traditional liberties be looked for.

THURSDAY'S CHILD by VERA BROWN
FROM THE OLD RHYME: "THURSDAY'S CHILD HAS FAR TO GO"

CHAPER THIRTY-FOUR

Rene led the way to the Countess' bedroom. At the door he let Sonny go into his mother alone. The girl's knees trembled. She felt that the old woman's keen eyes might see through the letters in her pocket. The Countess lay in a high-canopied bed, and her ruffled night-cap made her look more ancient and withered than usual.

"Is it true, you have no money?" she demanded. Her eyes were glittering with emotion.

"Yes, Countess. My attorney says there have been heavy stock market losses."

"There will be nothing left?"

"Very little. A few hundred a year."

"I do not understand. There have been no big bank failures in the United States?" She showed them she had been reading the U.S. stock reports.

"My guardian has been investing unwisely."

"He can be sued."

"But he is no longer solvent. That is the trouble."

The old woman sighed. "I do not understand. You are so calm."

Sonny smiled. "I was poor once. I can be poor again."

"It will be more difficult this time, my child. Believe me."

"You do not understand. My money has not brought me happiness."

The Countess smiled. "That is being sentimental, my child. Money does not bring happiness, of course, but it makes unhappiness more endurable." Then the Countess' face became very grave as she continued: "I had hoped to save all this for my grandchildren. Now it must go."

"You mean you will lose your home?" Sonny asked.

"We are very poor. Now we shall be poorer."

There was nothing the girl could do or say. She touched the old woman's hand gently then and left her. Rene was waiting, harassed, and openly rebellious. But he accepted the fact that their marriage was now impossible.

They went out into the night and Rene found a cab. Sonny posted the clipper letter in the special box outside the post-office and put the other letter in the regular mail box.

It was done. Her future which had been so assured as few minutes before, was now an unknown quantity. Yet she felt strangely light-hearted. Happier than she had been for many months. She had money enough for the time being. Time enough to worry about it when it was gone.

Rene took her back to the house and he was sunk in gloom. "I can't believe it! If you only had jewelry to liquidate!"

"But I haven't. You know that."

"That emerald you used to wear. It was very valuable. One of my friends told me that in Nice."

Sonny told her first lie: "That went long ago."

Rene accused her then of duplicity: "You knew all along. You were fooling me about your money!"

"No, Rene. That is not true."

"Home."

"But you must get a booking. You can't live in a hotel alone until your sailing time."

"Why not? I'm no longer your fiancée, Rene. It would be quite proper now."

Rene seemed to accept her logic: "I keep forgetting."

Sonny smiled. She understood his way of thinking so well.

Sonny breathed a sigh of relief as she went to her room to pack. She was going to be free at last. Free of money, free of the Hollisters—of everything!

She made her plans quickly. There was a small hotel back of the Opera. One of Martha's friends had stopped there. It was not fashionable or expensive. She'd stay there until she heard from Dick and got a sailing.

It was long after midnight when she finally got into bed, and she slept soundly for the first time in many nights.

Next morning, Sonny got up early, intending to get an early start. She had breakfast and was just putting on her hat when the maid knocked on her door, and handed Leslie a letter from the Countess. It was a bill for board and room for herself and Martha, for the weeks they had been at the house.

Sonny wanted to laugh, but she controlled herself until the maid had gone. How like them!

She counted out the money to the last franc, called the maid again and sent the money to the Countess. Then she ordered a cab. But she must say goodbye to her recanting hostess. The latter would expect that courtesy.

The old woman was still in bed when Sonny came into her room again. She held out her hand to Sonny.

"I am sorry about the bill. It was necessary. We are so hard pressed. I knew you would understand."

"You have been kind to me. I'm grateful."

There was nothing more they had to say to each other, so Sonny took her leave.

Rene was waiting for her at the front door. He took her hand, saying, "It is too bad it has ended this way, my dear."

"Maybe everything is for the best, Rene."

"We must try to think of it that way," he said, kissing her hand.

In the cab, driving toward the Etoile, Sonny hummed a little song. In her shabby hotel room she unpacked only what she needed immediately. Then she went out to a steamship office to check on sailings.

It was mobbed with hysterical people trying to get home. Finally she gave up and walked over to the boulevard, where she had lunch at a sidewalk cafe. After that she wandered around utterly happy. Everywhere there were groups of soldiers.

For several days Sonny wandered about in a golden haze. All about were frantic Americans trying to sail for home. She was amused at their panic, glad she had decided to give up the idea until she heard from Dick.

Toward the end of the week, she got back to her hotel at tea time to find Rene waiting for her. He was in his uniform, looking very handsome and solemn. "I had to see you. Have you got your sailing?"

"I gave up. The steamship office was too crowded."

He shook his head impatiently.

"You must go immediately."

"You're serious?"

"Don't ask me any questions. I'll arrange for your trunks to go tonight. You must get them started right away. Let us go somewhere and have an aperitif so we can talk. Come, the bar's this way."

When they were seated, he gave her an envelope saying, "You must do just as I say. There is no hope of a reservation on a French boat. Here is a ticket for a British ship. All your trunks will go tonight on the 'Normandy.' At least they'll be out of the way."

He lit a cigarette and his hand shook.

"Then the war is coming?"

"We think so. I am ordered to my regiment Monday."

"Oh, Rene."

"You must leave in a day or two for England. The S.S. 'Athenia' sails from Glasgow next week. You must be ready to take it."

His manner and voice were better arguments than any reasons he could have advanced. Sonny accepted what he said.

"Here's the bill for the ticket—$190, that includes your fare across the channel."

She went upstairs to get him the money, and he left immediately afterward.

"I'll come to see you off," he promised.

Leslie telephoned Dick the night before she left for England. He had received her letter and done as she said. He did not know yet how things would turn out.

"I'm sailing from Glasgow next week aboard the 'Athenia,'" she told him. "Things look bad here."

Dick promised to wireless her on shipboard how matters turned out at the bank.

The day for departure arrived. Sonny was up at six, impatient to be off. Rene took her to the train. He was thinner, and very sad. "I would never let you go if it were not for the war," he said. "I could have combated the money, but not the war, too. I loved you very much, Leslie. You've made me very happy."

"Thank you, Rene. I'll never forget you."

A little whistle blew. It was time to leave. Rene put her on the train and kissed her. "Goodbye, my little American girl, and God bless you."

And as she watched his uniformed figure swinging down the platform, so straight and handsome, she knew somehow that she would never see him again.

The long journey was hot and uncomfortable. As the train sped through the peaceful north country, and Sonny gazed at the surrounding farms, almost ready for harvest, it was hard to believe that war might be the reaper.

It was night when the little channel boat came into the British harbor at Folkestone. Suppressed excitement was everywhere. Troops filled the station. The war was real again.

It was a clear night and the moon had not risen. As Sonny stood on deck, she saw the great searchlights sweeping the sky.

A French second officer standing beside her remarked, "On such a night as this, they will come." He referred to enemy planes, and all the tragedy of the world was in his voice.

Family Dinner Specialties Win Enthusiasm From Service Men On Leave

Whether he's your son, your brother, your best beau or just a selectee far from home, the service man on leave is sure to yearn for good home cooking. No matter how fine the food at camp may be, you'll be sure to win his high approval if you entertain him at a regular home-cooked dinner.

A thrifty dish that has the heart-warming association to boys away from home is a savory meat loaf. And a luscious meringue pie for dessert is a happy ending that's sure to win enthusiasm from any service man on leave. After routine camp life your guest from the service will be keenly appreciative of a bit of novelty. You might surprise him by serving spiced whipped cream with the coffee, for instance. And since reminiscence and yarn spinning are sure to go on into the wee, small hours, it's a good idea to serve decaffeinated coffee, so that everybody can indulge in extra cups without counting sheep later on. A cinnamon stick stirrer at the side of each cup is an extra touch that adds interest to your menu. And be sure to give the boys a generous package of cookies and candies to take back to camp, if you want a top rating as a morale builder.

Spiced Coffee

6 cups decaffeinated coffee
½ cup whipping cream, whipped
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg

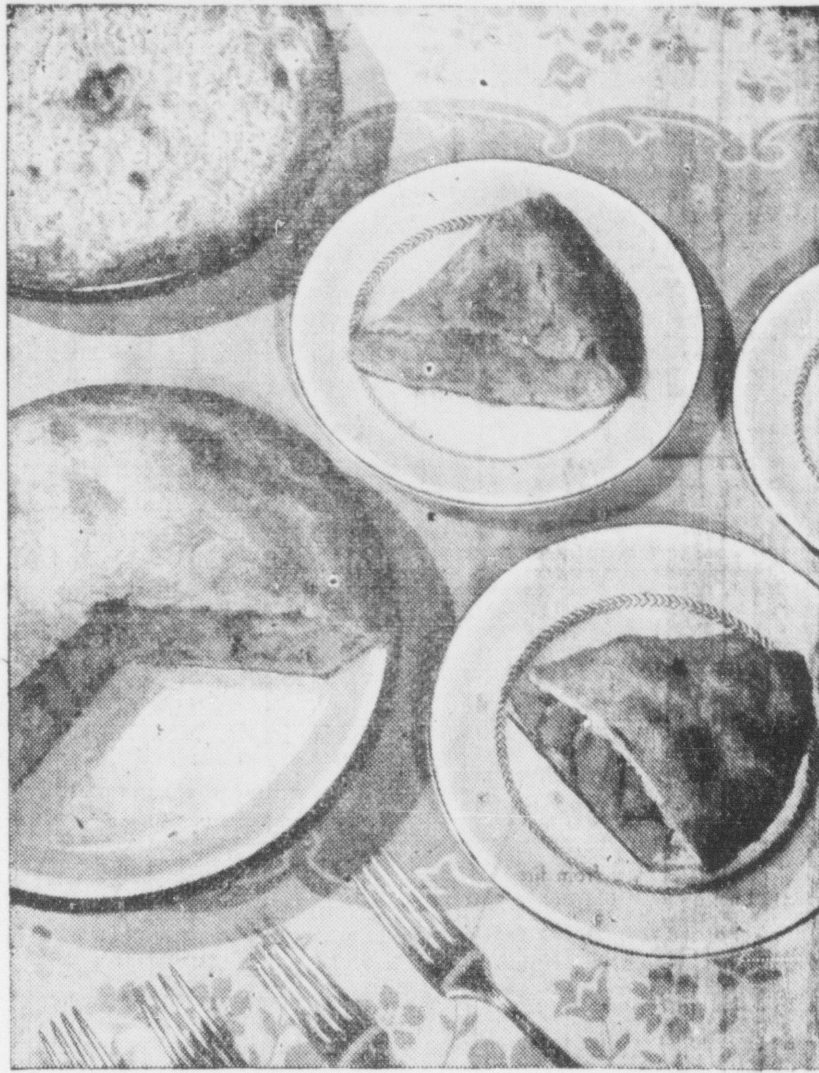

Top each cup of coffee with a spoonful of whipped cream into which the spices have been folded. Sugar may be served with the coffee if desired. You can use your favorite method of making the coffee, with regular grind for percolated or boiled coffee and drip grind for drip or glass maker. Allow a heaping tablespoon for each cup. And if you "perk" it, give it a few minutes extra brewing to bring out its full flavor.

Cranberry Meringue Pie

1½ cups sugar
¾ cup water
4 cups cranberries
4 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
2 tablespoons butter
½ recipe pie crust
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
4 tablespoons sugar

Boil sugar and water 5 minutes; add cranberries and boil without stirring until skins break (about 5 minutes). Cool. Add quick-cooking tapioca, salt, and butter, and let stand 15 minutes. Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry

Apple Pie—a la Male!

Here is "pie insurance" for apple-pie-fussy husbands. It's a Butter Crust Apple Pie baked by a man, using some of the smart new porcelain enamel pie plates, which are so effective for service right at the dinner table! Make your next apple pie the way he recommends and then think what a great come-back you'll have if your husband dares to complain.

rolled ¼ inch thick. Fill with cranberry mixture. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 15 minutes; then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake 25 minutes longer. Beat egg whites until foamy throughout; add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is blended. Then continue beating until mixture will stand in peaks. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 minutes.

New Recipes For A New Year

May I offer a suggestion to readers who are scattered over the United States, Canada and many nearby islands. No matter where you are, start the new year by serving at least one new, surprise dish each week. You'll be delighted at the reaction among your visiting friends as well as in your own family circle. Tasty navel oranges are obtainable everywhere for the next few months. This healthful Vitamin C-filled fruit is a wonderful alkaline-reaction balancer at any time, but try it in one of the new recipes below and you will be delighted.

Upside Down Orange Ham Loaf

1½ pounds lean pork shoulder, ground
1½ pounds smoked ham, ground
1½ cups milk
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup cracker crumbs, or 1½ cups soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon pepper
Combine all ingredients in order.

Orange Glaze

½ cup brown sugar

¾ cup butter, melted
Orange slices
Spread sugar and butter evenly in shallow baking pan. Cover with orange slices. Place ham mixture over fruit and press down evenly into a thin loaf. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 1 hour. Turn upside down on chop plate. Serve in squares. Serves 10.

Orange Crumbles

¾ cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup minus 2 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup orange juice
½ pound pitted dates
1/3 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
1 cup crushed corn flakes

Cream butter and gradually blend in sugar. Beat in egg. Sift dry ingredients together and add to butter mixture alternately with one-quarter cup orange juice. Mix well after each addition. Spread in greased shallow pan (about 8x12-inch size). Cook dates with one-third cup orange juice, stirring occasionally, to form a thick smooth paste. Cool slightly, add the grated orange peel, then spread over the unbaked mixture in the pan and cover with crushed cornflakes. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 to 25 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool in pan. Cut into squares. Makes 24 squares.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

We thank Thee, O God, for Jesus Christ our Saviour, for the Holy Bible and for the Church. We praise Thy Name for the Gospel, and for all who are making known the goodness of salvation. We pray that Christian brethren may dwell together in unity, and put on love, which is the bond of perfectness. May Thy Righteous and Peaceful Kingdom come, till all men everywhere may hear and know of Jesus, and learn to live as He lived and love as He loved. In His Name we pray, Amen.

after a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farruglio, Mansion street.

Mrs. Frank Dehny, Wood street, is recuperating from a tonsil operation which was performed in Abington Hospital, last week.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Deanna Durbin is surrounded by perhaps her most outstanding supporting cast, with accent on comedy, in "It Started With Eve," now playing at the Grand Theatre.

Both Miss Durbin and her distinguished co-star, Charles Laughton, devote themselves primarily to comedy. So does Robert Cummings, the popular leading man and comedian who appears opposite Miss Durbin for the third time.

Practically every principal in the supporting cast is a comedy headliner.

BRISTOL THEATRE

The two spicy and naughty comedies, Danielle Darrieux in the "Virgin Bride" and Rex Harrison in "School for Husbands" will be shown here today.

Miss Darrieux's quick rise to fame in her native country was based on an entirely different type of role, that of the tomboyish, devil-may-care young lady whose gay exploits lead her to the extreme borderline of maidenly modesty.

RITZ THEATRE

"The Stork Pays Off," merry farce featuring "Slapsie" Maxie Rosenbloom, Victor Jory and Rochelle Hudson, closes its laugh-provoking run at the Ritz Theatre today. The story centers about the embarrassment of a gang of plug-uglies, who unwittingly take over a nursery and find themselves with a brood of brats on their hands.

fore you do anything rash when your sewing machine skips stitches or the thread breaks.

The trouble may be easy to fix if you know what to do. First look at the needle to be sure that it has been set in the needle-bar correctly. The long groove should be on the side opposite from where the shuttle point or hook passes the needle.

Also be sure the needle is straight and of the correct size for the thread you are using. A table of correct needles for threads of different sizes is given in the instruction book for each machine. Check this carefully.

See that the needle is set accurately, neither too high nor too low. If any one of these factors is overlooked or incorrect, it may cause skipped stitches or broken threads.

Next look at the threading of the needle and bobbin. Improper threading of the bobbin may cause looped stitches on the top of the cloth. In correct threading of the needle, or a bobbin wound too full, uneven, or loose, may cause broken threads.

If both needle and bobbin seem to be all right, check the tension by looking at a sample of trial stitching. If the upper tension is too loose, looped stitches appear on the bottom of the cloth. If the lower tension is loose, the looped stitches are on the top of the fabric. If the tension is too tight, the material will pucker and the thread may break. If you find the top thread lies along the goods, the top tension is too tight or the bottom one too loose. To correct this, lower the presser foot and loosen the top tension. If that doesn't help tighten both tensions. If the bottom thread lies along the goods, either the bottom tension is too tight or the top one too loose. To remedy it, tighten the upper tension. If that doesn't work, loosen both tensions.

If these home remedies fail to correct the faults, call a machine mechanic and have him go over the machine thoroughly.

LABORATORY SEVEN STOPS ROHM & HAAS MACHINE SHOP TEAM

Score of That Tilt is 23 to 20;
Machinists Had Had 4
Straight

FOUR LEAGUE GAMES

Main Office Force Routs Enzymes; Plexiglas Office
Trims Martin Shop

In a tilt featured by close guarding the Laboratory Seven dribblers stopped the winning streak of the Machine Shop, 23-20, Tuesday night, as four Rohm & Haas League games were played on the club house floor. The machinists had a streak of four straight and were topping the circuit.

In the other games, the Main Office force routed the Enzymes, 50-23; Plexiglas Office trimmed the Martin Shop, 43-34; and the Labor Crew dropped a 31-21 verdict to the Plexiglas contingent.

Frank Mignoni and Frank Shantz led the Laboratory team to triumph with Shantz making his main scores in the last period. Kryven and Bill Petrick were outstanding for the losers.

"Herm" Schmidt, manager of the Main Office team, finally hit his stride in the Enzymes game when he dropped six field goals into the nets.
